
Higher values indicate better performance for the metrics shown. Set A achieved stronger test metrics, but it showed fitting warnings and overconfident probabilities. Set B remains the main interpretable model.